

Next week we will discuss uses and misuses of logic in ordinary language. We will analyze some typical arguments and decide whether they are logically complete or incomplete. Last three classes of the semester will be devoted to your project presentations—more details to follow.

Extra credit policy:

As announced in class, I will be awarding some extra credit, taking into account class participation, attendance and presentation. A necessary condition to get this extra credit is showing up the last day of classes when evaluation forms will be filled out—I want good attendance that day!

Have a great weekend!
